

MARCELLUS WILLIAMS

Marcellus Williams is a Missouri death row inmate who has a compelling claim of innocence based on recent DNA testing. This firm has represented Mr. Williams for over 12 years since his original appeal entered the federal court system. Although the courts had failed to intervene to stop Mr. Williams' scheduled execution in August of 2017, due to an extraordinary amount of public pressure, current Governor Eric Greitens stayed Mr. Williams' execution and appointed a Board of Inquiry to hear his claim of innocence. The Board will commence its hearings in the case in June of 2018.
